SUMMARY.

Two Belgians, who have reached Holland from Flanders, declare that the Germans are not making preparations for an offensive.

There is, they say, no large concentration of troops on the Western front.

The British made a successful raid north of the Somme. The enemy, using his artillery in the Ypres sector.

A naval mutiny is reported to have occurred at Kiel on the 11th inst. It is stated that officers were killed.

The mutiny was started by the submarine crews, and spread to portions of the crews of the cruisers.

Reports have reached Washington that the King of Belgium is threatening to arrest the King of Italy.

At Brest Latouze Herze von Kuhmuhm declared that the Russian pronouncements regarding the occupied regions were unacceptable.

He emphasizes that peace with Russia was not connected with a general peace.

The Central Powers, he added, were compelled to continue the war against their other enemies.

Questions in the House of Commons revealed that a German submarine attacked a convoy of ships near Falmouth.

The attack was made on Boxing Day. One vessel was sunk, and another was severely damaged.

A German official report states that Night forces raided the northern part of the North Sea on the night of the 11th.

They advanced northward of the mouth of the Thames, and reached port established north of 200 miles.

The British Admiralty says Yarmouth was attacked for five minutes, but no other part was attacked.

The Italians repelled a violent attack after a fierce struggle eastward of Capoiale, inflicting heavy losses.

The Milan paper "Secolo" states that the Carabinieri repelled tally with the Calliano brigands among Italian politicians.

Calliano urged that the war was simply a struggle for world dominion between England and Germany.

The interests of France and Italy, he stated, were diametrically opposed to Britain's triumph.

Two British destroyers were wrecked off the coast of Scotland during a gale. All except one man were saved.

Passenger ships have escaped from German ports, narrate stories of horrible treatment for refusing to work in mines.

A Japanese warship, equipped with breaking apparatus, has reached Vladivostok to protect British interests.

A regular conference will be held in Cattolica this month.

An agitation is gaining ground in favour of reparation for the British section of the population.

If the attitude of a large proportion of the French, any measure of compensation is considered extremely unlikely.

An unexpected development occurred in the Federal political situation yesterday.

An intimation between the Opposition and a section of the Ministerialists was received.

This has not obtained the election of the Minister of the Interior, and the substitution of another Cabinet. The plan miscarried.

A satisfactory progress was made at the meeting of the Treasurer's Conference in Melbourne yesterday.

The Commonwealth Treasurer offered to extend the 1915-16 loan to 1916-17 from the end of the war.

A resolution was adopted that the Federal Government should continue to offer high rates of interest to State governments.

A public meeting was entered against the deduction from the State budgets of the per capita payments on account of absent soldiers.

We are probably better off than any of the other States," remarked Mr. Holtzman after the meeting.

At the same time, we have had to make sweeping reductions, and shall probably have to make greater reductions."

There has already been a general response to the call for a loan for a further £100,000 for soldiers' dependents.

A business man contends that 70,000 tons of shipping could be released by the substitution of inland freight for water freight.

Business is responding well to the appeal for the Scottish Women's War Hospitals, which now totals £850.

A Melbourne police magistrate held that removal from the service could not be made for the relief of employment.

The Master Pharmacists discussed the proposal to bring chemists' shops within the scope of the Liquid Cleaning Act.

It was proposed that the Minister for Labour and Industry would extend the provisions of the Act to the association.

The majority of the northern colliery proprietors express the opinion that the Government should not increase the miners' wage.

Some of them think, however, that one or two collieries in the Maitland district may be purchased.

The Miners' Delegate Board discussed the proposal of agreement with the Victorian Government.

The opinion was expressed that part of the coal for Victoria should be taken from the southern collieries.

It is proposed to amalgamate into one company the northern and southern associations throughout the Commonwealth.

The housing question in Lithgow is reported to be serious. Newcomers are unable to obtain suitable accommodation.

At a meeting of the Central Wheat Board the proposal to abandon wheat-growing in favour of sheep-raising was rejected.

A miner was killed by a fall of earth while working in the Juniper North mine, Broken Hill.

A Federal committee says that the self-government of Australia demand that pro-Serbs in Papua be prosecuted with vigour.

An Australian shipbuilder, who is visiting Sydney, does not think the Commonwealth building programme will be easily realized.

The cost of materials, he explains, will be greater than can be reasonably paid.

Two young men were committed for trial yesterday on a charge of breaking and entering in a house in Elizabeth-street.

This was a sequel to the discovery of a large quantity of silver hidden in the sand at Waterloo.

The House of Representatives sat until 3 o'clock yesterday morning, discussing the no-confidence motion.

It was decided that the people had resolved that it should no longer be made a burning question.

The no-confidence motion was eventually defeated by 43 votes to 19.

The Treasurer introduced in the House of Representatives a Supply Bill for two months on January 22.

Mr. Austin Chapman said the Postmaster-General was never in a worse condition than he was at present.

A business man, he believed, would save £100,000 a year, and give the public better service.

A registered packet containing £1,000 worth of banknotes was stolen in transit between Sydney and Newcastle.

It was recovered in a wheat crop at Cowra. Five acres of wheat were destroyed, and 10 bushels of wheat were damaged.

The Miners' Delegate Board favoured a representative of the coal miners in the Commonwealth to the suggested nationalisation.

Coal contracts or contracts were on the open market, and rates were made at 100, 100 bushels and 100 bushels were steady at late rates.

Trade shipments of potatos were in hand, and prices were reduced.

Generally, fairs, with moderate temperature, and shortly became sultry.

RUSSIA'S TERMS GERMAN REFUSAL OCCUPIED PROVINCES

ROUMANIA. LENIN ORDERS ARREST OF KING.

LONDON, Jan. 18.
Petrograd newspapers state that Lenin has ordered the King of Roumania to be arrested and brought to Petrograd.

Previous advices from Washington stated that the Bolsheviks were threatening to arrest the King of Roumania, and that an order for his arrest had been signed.

A message from Petrograd says that Count Diamandi, the Roumanian Minister, was attending a New Year's dinner when the police arrived, and he was immediately taken to the fortress prison of Saint Peter and Saint Paul. No charge was formulated. The real reason was that the Roumanians had thrown in their lot with the south-eastern union.

Count Diamandi is well known for his Socialist sympathies. He was an intimate friend of Dr. Liebknecht and family when he was the representative of the United States, Herr von Kuhlmann (German Foreign Minister) and the Roumanian government in the occupied regions were unacceptable, as they represented a one-sided Russian demand. Herr von Kuhlmann emphasized that peace with Russia was not connected with German peace, as the Central Powers were compelled to continue the war against their enemies.

Regarding the constitutional organization of the newly-created States, Herr von Kuhlmann quoted the United States Senate Committee's decision that the United States' sovereignty existed from the date of the declaration of independence irrespective of England's recognition.

Herr von Kuhlmann affirmed that Austria and Germany did not intend to incorporate the occupied territories into their respective countries, or compel them to accept this or that form of State, but reserved a free hand for the conclusion of treaties of every kind. It was impossible to withdraw their armies during the war.

The Central Empires were prepared to agree to the principle of the people's vote, but opposed a referendum, pointing out that the Ukraine and Finland had been created as independent States by resolutions of the National Assembly. "An understanding between Russia and the Central Powers is impossible," he added.

"Unless Russia sees the question from our side, instead of formulating dictatorial one-sided aims."

BARTERING GUNS FOR CARDS.
A German spokesman states that the Germans have erected four trading booths on the Russian front. Russian soldiers are most anxious to obtain playing cards, and readily barter a machine-gun for a pack.

RUSSIAN LIABILITIES.
Mr. Bonar Law said in the House of Commons that the Government had arranged to take over Treasury Bills issued on behalf of the Russian Government by the Bank of England in exchange for twelve-year Exchequer Bonds at par. These bonds now were quoted at 82, but the Treasury assured acceptance against for a premium of 12 per cent. The transaction involved a total liability of about seventeen millions.

AMBASSADOR TO PETROGRAD.
It is understood that Sir George Buchanan's successor as British Ambassador to Petrograd has been appointed. He was chosen outside the regular diplomatic service.

Vладивосток.
It is officially announced in Tokyo that a Japanese force, equipped with ice-breaking apparatus, has reached Vladivostok to protect Allied interests.

DESTROYERS LOST.
ONLY ONE SURVIVOR.

An official report from East Africa states: Our column from Fort Johnson engaged the enemy at the confluence of the Luvanu and Lajenda rivers, forcing them northwards.

Patrols inflicted appreciable losses on the enemy southward of Owembe.

HOSPITAL SHIPS.
MAN-POWER BILL.

SECOND READING CARRIED.

The British naval authorities are satisfied beyond doubt that the sinking of the hospital ship, Rewa, on January 4, was due to a torpedo.

As regards the sinking of hospital ships, Lieut.-Commander von Spiegel wrote a book entitled, "The Voyage of the Rewa," in which he stated that the British hospital ship, with 1000 soldiers aboard, armed with rifles, after offering a reasonable protest for sinking him, was sunk by a torpedo.

A German leave train, near Kirm, was derailed, owing to the collapse of an embankment. Some were killed and wounded.

EAST AFRICA.
BRITISH IN ACTION.

An official report from East Africa states: Our column from Fort Johnson engaged the enemy at the confluence of the Luvanu and Lajenda rivers, forcing them northwards.

Patrols inflicted appreciable losses on the enemy southward of Owembe.

COAL-SAVING ORDER.
AMERICAN PRESS PROTESTS.

The United States Senate has passed a resolution, postponing the operation of the coal order for five days.

The New York "Times," referring to the order closing down industries in order to conserve coal supplies, said: "It is to be interpreted by our men as a shocking confession of America's weakness and incapacity." The journal urged President Wilson immediately to revoke Mr. Garfield's astounding order, otherwise it will have a calamitous effect on war industries.

A German wireless message states that the English themselves, according to the "Daily Chronicle" of December 11, admit that hospital ships were used to transport troops. This so-called admission was deliberately false, stated by Mr. Ethel Marsh, for which he was awarded a month's imprisonment.

The New York "World" urges the retraction of "a dangerous order," and the removal of Mr. Garfield from office.

The New York Stock Exchange has not been materially affected by Mr. Garfield's action.

YARMOUTH RAID.
WORK OF DESTROYERS.

The bombardment of Yarmouth apparently was the work of three destroyers. The night was wild and dark, and the visibility such that the British patrol on the lookout for the enemy was unable to see more than 300 yards. The enemy destroyers steamed at full speed past Yarmouth, and fled indeterminately.

GERMAN EXAGGERATION.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.) A German official report states: Light forces attacked the southern parts of the North Sea on the night of January 14. They advanced part of the Thames' mouth, and advanced part port establishments, bring over 300 yards.

The British Admiralty's comment on the German story points out that the bombardment of Yarmouth lasted 8 minutes, and only 50 shells were fired. No other part was bombed.

AN EMPEROR'S LIFE.

A message from Amsterdam says the Austrian Socialist newspaper attacks a proposal of the Austrian Journals to make the Emperor's life easier. The paper states that the Government should build a new capital, and that the Emperor's life should be made easier.

The British Admiralty's comment on the German story points out that the bombardment of Yarmouth lasted 8 minutes, and only 50 shells were fired. No other part was bombed.

SOUTH AFRICAN RECRUITS.

A message from Cape Town states that in respect of the reorganization of the Board of Trade, the Government to urgent appeal by the South African oversea brigades, a recruit conference will be held at Cape Town this month.

The agitation is gaining ground in favour of conscription for the British section, and in view of the attitude of a large proportion of the Dutch, any measure of compulsion is extremely unlikely.

BOARD OF TRADE CHANGES.

A memorandum has been issued in respect of the reorganization of the Board of Trade into two main departments. The first will deal with commerce and industry, and the second with the public services.

The administration of the former will be concerned mainly with the development of trade, by striking out and assisting in the prosecution of cartels and trusts, and industrial policy.

The administration of the second will be concerned mainly with the protection of the public services, with the supervision of the railways and other public utilities.

The amendment was defeated by 137 votes to 48.
